PRESS RELEASE

New Head Teacher for Wilmslow Preparatory School

Mr Paul Reynolds has taken up the position of Headmaster at Wilmslow Preparatory School for Girls, the area's only all-girls prep school.

Paul was previously Head of the well-known Sedbergh Junior School in Cumbria, took over from Mrs Hilary Shaw who retired in July 2009 after 34 years with the School, the last seven as Head Teacher.

Commenting on Paul's appointment, Chairman of the WPS Board of Governors, Nick Rudgard said: "We are delighted that Paul Reynolds, with his excellent track record and broad experience, has accepted the post and as we enter our second century are confident that he will respect our best traditions whilst building on our position as one of the leading preparatory schools in the area."

Paul Reynolds, who has two grown up children, has relocated to the area with his wife, Adele.
